LINCOLN, NEB., SATURDAY MORNING, FEBRUARY 9, 1957

FIVE CENTS

HI(GH) FRIEND!

Lincolnite Dick Lyon, 7, made a new friend Friday night when Kansas U. basketball star Wilt Chamberlain came to town. The fact that Dick is just half as tall as seven-foot Wilt made it something of a stretch to shake hands, but the son of Rev. James K. Lyon, 817 Plum, didn't mind. Wilt and his Kansas teammates will play Nebraska at the Coliseum Saturday night. (Star Photo by Bob McKay.)

Ike, Macmillan Talk In Bermuda Near

... Meeting Readied For March 21

By JOHN M. HIGHTOWER
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower probably will fly to Bermuda about March 21 for a conference with British Prime Minister Harold Macmillan, according to plans now being worked out between Washington and London.

Prior to the Bermuda trip the President probably will hold a round of talks here with Premier Guy Mollet of France.

These talks will be the first top level conferences held among the Western allies since their wide open break last fall following the British-French attack in Egypt.

Ever since that time British and French leaders have been interested in meeting with the President in an effort to restore allied unity but Eisenhower has delayed meeting their requests because of what U.S. officials have described as a desire to concentrate on making the most of the good will which the United States gained among Asian and Middle Eastern countries by denouncing the British-French attack.

Ike In Georgia

THOMASVILLE, Ga. (AP)—President Eisenhower came to this piney woods region of south Georgia Friday for his annual vacation of quail hunting and golf as the guest of Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower, together with Humphrey and his wife, flew from Washington to nearby Moultrie, Ga., and then motored 35 miles to the Humphrey plantation estate, known as Milestone.

Eisenhower arrived at the picturesque plantation with its white-pillared main house just a bit in advance of dusk—and just too late to get in a round of quail hunting before dinner. He probably will try his luck in the morning.

This is the fourth February in a row Eisenhower has come to Humphrey's place for two of his favorite kinds of recreation—quail shooting and golf. He may stay a week or 10 days.

Dry Weather
This time the golf course, Glen Arven, is reported to be in wonderful shape. But the word is that quail hunting conditions are something less than ideal because of dry weather.

The President stepped from his plane at Moultrie into balmy sunshine with the temperature at 81 degrees. That delighted Mrs. Eisenhower, who smiled and remarked: "My, this sun certainly feels good."

Truck Crash Kills SB Man

HOLDREGE, Neb. (AP)—Ray Gief, about 23, of Scottsbluff was killed Friday night in a two-truck crash on Highway 183-383 about 12½ miles north of Holdrege.

Gief's semi-trailer loaded with salt was in collision with a panel truck driven by D. M. Stuart, Cozad, Stuart escaped injury.

Both trucks reported were northbound. Details of the accident were unavailable.

It was Nebraska's 16th traffic death of the year, compared with 26 at this time in 1956.

Ash Suggests Council Appoint Woman

By BILL DOBLER
Star Staff Writer

A woman may be appointed to the Lincoln City Council if that group listens to the opinion of acting Mayor Pat Ash.

Ash, now sitting in for Mayor Bennett Martin who has been hospitalized, said he has received a number of inquiries relative to filling the vacancy on the Council to be created with the resignation of Councilman Ray Osborn.

Osborn will resign to accept an appointment to the State Liquor Commission.

'Another Viewpoint'

Ash said he personally felt the Council "should seriously consider appointment of a woman. Such an appointment would represent another viewpoint which would be very valuable in city affairs."

The acting mayor also said he feels the vacancy should not be filled until after the May general elections. Thus, he said, the Council will be able to secure a person for the job from a different location and profession than those elected in May.

The Council will undoubtedly discuss the vacancy, Ash said, before Osborn resigns. Osborn could resign at any time prior to May 25, effective date of the state appointment.

Appointment

The Council vacancy is filled by appointment for the remaining two years of Osborn's term whether he resigns before or after the election.

No specific names have been mentioned yet for the Council post.

One possibility mentioned has been the appointment to the vacancy of one of the three Council incumbents whose term expires in May and does not choose to run for another four-year term. This would mean either Chauncey W. D. Kinsey, Hugh Thorne or Joseph E. Fenton.

All three are up for re-election in May and none has yet said whether they will seek another term.

Folsom Warns Of Dictatorship

Alabama Governor Urges Congress To Back, Protect National Guard

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gov. James E. Folsom of Alabama, who says he joined the National Guard at 13, urged Congress Friday to back the Guard as protection against "a military dictatorship."

Folsom told a House Armed Services subcommittee "plotters in the Defense Department and Bureau of the Budget" are working for complete federalization of the state troops.

An Army order requiring new Guard ground forces enlistees to take six months active duty training is only the latest step in the plot, he said. Guard spokesmen are seeking modification of the order, effective April 1, so that they can confine active duty training to summer school vacation periods.

The six-foot, eight-inch governor, telling the committee he knows the family of almost every Alabama Guardsman, said he believes only the foresight in the founding fathers in placing the National Guard under authority of the state governors has "prevented a military dictatorship in this country."

"Once you place the entire reserve forces, including the National Guard, under complete Pentagon control and subject to the whims of the bureaucrats of the Defense Department, you will have the making of a military dictatorship which could be overthrown only by bloodshed," he said.

'Failure'

Folsom termed the six months training programs instituted in reserve components of the federal forces a "colossal failure." He asked:

"How can you train men at all until you first get the warm bodies? What young man of this peace-time generation would volunteer for six months service and the loss of school time when his chances of being drafted are only about 1 out of 15?"

Folsom backed a National Guard Assn. proposal for 11 weeks active duty training of guard recruits under 18½, six months for older enlistees. But he said he would "go along" with a six months program divided into two summertime periods. President Eisenhower has said he considers it would reduce the value of the training greatly to split it up.

Folsom said he joined the Alabama Guard at 13 and was discharged just about the time he was getting old enough to join.

Folsom testified as the subcommittee wound up the first phase of its hearings on the various reserve programs. It will resume them Feb. 18, with National Guard spokesmen as witnesses.

Fireman Quits 'Because Of Merger'

By ALLEN EDEE
Star Staff Writer

Fireman William Rosenthal Jr. said Friday he quit the Lincoln Fire Department Tuesday because "I don't like police duty."

Rosenthal, 24, who worked a year and a half at the College View station, said that "almost every one in the department is dissatisfied" over the new integration system.

He predicted a "bigger turnover of men" because of the new program and said Chief Paul Feaster had already transferred some men because of their complaints over the program.

"I had planned to stay with the department and then retire," Rosenthal said.

'Won't Stop'
"The integration program is not going to stop," he said, "and whether or not it works they (his superiors) are not going to say it won't work."

Rosenthal explained that with four hours of extra police duty, "I didn't get enough rest."

The fireman said he is moving to Illinois to work for an electric company at a salary of $350. Rosenthal's salary was $295 as a first-class fireman.

Rosenthal said a 14-year veteran of the Fire Department, Herman Hagel-Pitt, quit recently, with the integration program part of his reasons for leaving.

'Low Morale'

"All but three firemen are against the program," he said. The morale is very low, according to Rosenthal.

Fire Chief Paul Feaster, commenting on Rosenthal's statements, said "I can't see how he has a legitimate gripe. I was told that he has been dissatisfied with his job and disinterested in his work."

Feaster emphasized that he was "not promoting integration in the

Committee Holds Back Roads Bill

By ROY CAMPBELL
Star Staff Writer

The Legislature's Public Works Committee held for further study and possible amendments Friday a 60-page bill recodifying county road laws.

Under the proposed bill, which received a 70-hour public hearing Friday afternoon, counties under commission-type governments with a population of 15,000 or greater would be compelled to set up road unit plans. It also would require the counties to hire a highway superintendent.

Former Gov. Robert Crosby, representing the County Officials Assn. of Nebraska, told the committee counties would not be required to follow specifications set by the State Highway Department, although the road work plans for a year's time would be submitted to the department.

Question, Answer Period

The committee waived the usual type of committee hearing for a question and answer session, after which those who wanted could register opposition to the bill. None appeared.

As drawn, the bill, LB 111, was the combined work of a Legislative Council committee headed by former Sen. Glenn Cramer of Albion, and the County Officials Assn.

Cramer told the Committee the bill would "eliminate a lot of the horse and buggy" statutes in the present law.

L. N. Resse, state engineer, told the committee that "laws enacted in 1897 (those being changed) under which county supervisors work certainly aren't adequate."

Robert Kriefels, Otoe County Commissioner, questioned the fact the proposed bill calls for road plans to be submitted in February

Britain Hears Fresh Gossip

One Story Says Know-It-Alls Hint Duke Of Edinburgh Interested In An Unnamed Woman

By JACK SMITH

LONDON (AP)—Rumors printed in the United States of discord between Queen Elizabeth II and her husband brought denials Friday from Buckingham Palace.

Cmdr. Richard Colville, press secretary at the palace, was asked about a dispatch to the Baltimore Sun by its London correspondent reporting that cafe society folk were "talking openly of a rift" between the royal couple.

Colville replied:

"It is quite untrue that there is any rift between the Queen and the Duke of Edinburgh."

The Sun's correspondent, Joan Graham, said in her dispatch:

Started In Summer

"The whisper started last summer. It was then hinted by the know-it-alls that the Duke of Edinburgh had more than a passing interest in an unnamed woman and was meeting her regularly in the private apartment of Baron, the court photographer who died of heart trouble at the age of 46 last fall."

(Baron, although never officially a court photographer, was famed for his portraits of celebrities. He used only the single name Baron.)

The story said fuel was added to the talk when it was planned for Baron to go with the Duke on a four-month, round-the-world tour, and that some gossips thought Edinburgh was being sent away "to cool down."

It added that "the rumors are now percolating down to the British masses" though nothing had appeared in the British press. Whispered rumors that all was not perfect in the marriage of the 31-year-old queen and the dashing duke have been current in some circles in London for two years and more. None of the rumors has been supported by tangible evidence.

Says Queen Ignored

For example, one London journalist speculated privately on discord between the queen and her 35-year-old husband after having watched the couple in the royal box at the Ascot race course. The duke, he told friends, devoted himself almost exclusively to guests and had hardly a word for his wife.

Gossip about friction between the couple gained currency when the duke's equerry, Lt. Cmdr. Michael Parker, resigned unexpectedly last Monday.

Parker quit after his wife disclosed that she and her 36-year-old husband had been separated for several months.

The palace, with the prestige and dignity of the monarchy at stake, apparently felt it could not be linked in any way with a man who might soon be in the divorce courts.

Parker's resignation led to fresh talk to the effect that the Duke, as well as his equerry, was having domestic trouble.

There have been no reports in the British press of discord in the royal family, but newspapers have given more than usual prominence to stories concerning Parker's resignation.

Apart Four Months

The duke and the queen have been apart since Edinburgh started on his tour last Oct. 15. He opened the Olympic games at Melbourne and then called at several outposts of the British empire, including New Zealand, New Guinea, Gambia and the Falkland Islands. The royal couple are to be reunited in Lisbon at the start of an official visit to Portugal, one of Britain's traditional allies.

In the duke's absence the British press has centered some attention on the couple's 8-year-old son, Prince Charles. There has been talk about hardships for a young boy deprived of the company of his father.

Queen Said 'Furious'

International New Service said: Reliable sources said Friday Queen Elizabeth was "furious" about reported "goings-on" around Buckingham Palace. But an official palace spokesman denied published reports of a "rift" between the queen and the Duke of Edinburgh.

Knowing Londoners suggested another perusal of an innocuous-looking item that appeared this week in the London Evening Standard. The newspaper, owned by Lord Beaverbrook, reported that Philip had ordered a new, single bed for his quarters at Windsor Castle, a bed made to Philip's "own specifications." Single beds are still considered something of a novelty for British couples.

While reporting that Elizabeth was "furious," the reliable sources said they were not sure how much of the rumored "goings-on" she was aware of, or believed.

These "goings-on," it was said, involved an attractive London "party girl" who performed various unpaid, voluntary chores around staid old Buckingham Palace. There were also reports of private parties attended by Edinburgh in the nearby royal borough of Kensington.

MAN FALLS 21 FLOORS AND LIVES

NEW YORK (AP)—Two workmen tumbled into an elevator shaft in West Harlem Friday. One of them saved himself four floors down with a trapeze-like maneuver. The other plunged 21 floors to the bottom but walked away alive.

Elevator cables installed by the pair saved their lives. Explained one of them, Donald McKeon, 23:

"Whenever we go on a job, we always look to see what we can grab if anything happens, so I had the cables in mind. I started grabbing for the cables and when I grabbed one I held."

Fellow-workers on the job were amazed that the two men survived. McKeon and William Vessialiades, 35, were installing elevator cables on the 21st floor of a building under construction. One of the cables suddenly whipped away from them.

Vessialiades was jerked forward into McKeon, who plunged into the shaft. An instant later Vessialiades toppled in, too.

McKeon grabbed one of the fixed cables in the shaft and swung himself to safety on the 17th floor. Vessialiades fell past him head first, frantically groping with his hands for the cables.

Farther down, Vessialiades managed to wrap his legs around a cable and slow his fall. Just before he hit the bottom of the shaft he got his hands on a second cable, righted himself and eased the rest of the way down. He suffered leg and thigh lacerations.

Oil-Gasoline Price Probe Ordered

Exports To West Europe Show Drop

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department stepped into the controversy over higher oil and gasoline prices Friday, obtaining an order for a grand jury investigation of the industry.

U.S. District Judge Albert V. Bryan, sitting in nearby Alexandria, Va., directed that a special grand jury be convened there March 4.

He acted on motion of attorneys for the Justice Department's antitrust division, who asked for an inquiry covering individuals and companies engaged in "the production, refining and sale of oil."

Asst. Atty. Gen. Victor R. Hansen, in charge of the antitrust division, said the government has no control over oil prices themselves but is concerned with the possibility of an agreement within the industry to raise prices concertedly.

Flurry In Charge

Atty. Horace L. Flurry of the antitrust division will be in charge of the government's presentation.

Crude oil prices were boosted 35 cents a barrel last month, while the retail price of gasoline and fuel oil went up one cent a gallon in many places.

Complaints of price gouging by the oil interests already have been aired in Congress. There has been special criticism of increased gasoline prices at a time when domestic gasoline stocks are said to be at an all-time high.

Sen. O'Mahoney (D-Wyo.) suggested last Tuesday that legislation may be needed to deal with the problem.

"Everybody will agree," the senator said, "that as objectionable as price fixing is when carried on by the government, it would be far worse if carried on by private operators."

Defender In Congress

In defense of the oil industry, Rep. Ikard (D-Tex.) told the house the increase in the price of crude was "necessitated and justified by spiraling costs." He blamed increased wages and higher steel prices.

Trusty Again Gets Away From Prison

Still at large after his second successful escape from the Nebraska Penitentiary is Francis L. Mitchell, 43-year-old trusty who walked away from a work detail in Lincoln Thursday.

Mitchell walked away from the Nebraska Orthopedic Hospital, 11th and South, during an afternoon work detail.

It was the second time the former Omahan had escaped. In 1944, he and another convict sawed their way out of the penitentiary with a smuggled hacksaw.

They then abducted two Palmyra men and took them on a wild 76-mile ride before releasing them near South Omaha.

Kidnap, Robbery

He was convicted of kidnaping and robbery with aggravation in Iowa in 1935 and served about five years of a 30-year term at Fort Madison.

He was serving a two-year forgery term from Hastings when he escaped from the penitentiary the first time.

In 1954, Mitchell was arrested again after an abortive burglary attempt near Kennard. His partner was killed by a shotgun blast at the capture.

Between prison terms, Mitchell has made numerous appearances in Omaha courts on vagrancy and shoplifting charges.

Famed Polish Orthopedist Cites U.S. Differences

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

The major difference which exists between orthopedic surgery in Poland and America is in approach.

That was the opinion given by Dr. Adam Gruca of Warsaw, Poland, a distinguished orthopedic surgeon of international fame who arrived in Lincoln Friday to meet with orthopedic surgeons in Nebraska.

The guest of Lincoln physician and surgeon Dr. J. E. M. Thomson, Dr. Gruca addressed a group of orthopedists Friday evening at the Lincoln Orthopedic and Rehabilitation Center.

Stating that American surgeons can take a long time in fully treating their patients, Dr. Gruca said that in Poland they must take care of immediate needs in an attempt to care for as many patients as possible.

'Thousands Wait'

"We have many more patients and fewer surgeons than you have in America," he commented, "and there are always several thousands awaiting treatment in Poland."

As a result of this supply and demand, Dr. Gruca said, one sees "many more neglected patients in Poland."

Dr. Gruca told The Star in an interview that he was making his first trip to the United States to visit orthopedic and rehabilitation centers over the nation.

The Polish surgeon arrived in America two weeks ago and addressed the American Academy of Orthopedic Surgeons at Chicago. From there he went to the Mayo Clinic at Rochester and then to the University of Minnesota medical clinic at Minneapolis before his arrival in Lincoln.

First Since War

Dr. Thomson said Dr. Gruca is the "first distinguished surgeon to come from Poland to the United States since World War II." He said Dr. Gruca's appearance at the Academy and his visits throughout America were made possible by a grant from the World Rehabilitation Foundation.

Commenting on his impressions of the United States, Dr. Gruca said it was "confusing" in the beginning but "there are so many new things and it is so beautiful there's no comparison between this country and the way things are in Europe."

Dr. Thomson reported the Polish surgeon has gained international recognition for many things, but the three most outstanding are his contributions in these fields: a new approach to the correction of deformities of curvature of the spine, work in tuberculosis of the bones and joints, and hip joint surgery.

Monumental Study

Dr. Gruca has just recently completed a monumental study on orthopedic surgery which has been published in Poland and Germany. The first volume of the work is about one thousand pages and he said the second volume will be about 500 to 600 pages.

Asked for his opinion of the Nebraska Capitol Building, the Polish doctor exclaimed, "Ah, it's wonderful... very good engineers and very good artists. And Lincoln is such a lovely city, now we understand why Dr. Thomson speaks so highly of Nebraska and is so proud of Lincoln... he has reason to be."

Dr. Gruca will leave Sunday for San Francisco, and from there he will go to Los Angeles, Memphis, Washington, D. C., New York, Boston and Philadelphia in his visits to orthopedic centers before he returns to Poland at the end of February.

All Right

Williams then brought up the fact that former Republican President Herbert Hoover last week said he had been through it all before and the nation would be all right if it followed the same policies he advocated in 1928.

Atomic Plant Proposed For South Minnesota

... To Feed Into Lincoln Firm's Lines

MILWAUKEE (AP)—A new atomic reactor plant that may produce electric power more cheaply than conventional steam generation is scheduled for construction in the Midwest.

Central Electric and Gas Co. of Lincoln is in an association of utility companies in seven states which will underwrite research and development.

Allis-Chalmers, a pioneer developer of working reactors, will build the plant, estimated to cost $20 to $25 million.

When finished in 1962, the plant will be owned and operated by the Northern States Power Co. and its 60,000 kilowatt capacity will be fed into the connected lines of the co-operating systems.

Not Yet Approved

The Atomic Energy Commission still has to approve the plans and construction site, which a utility association spokesman said would be somewhere in southern Minnesota.

No additional transmission facilities are contemplated. Existing lines will carry energy from the plant to the systems of participating companies.

Northern State President Alles S. King in Minneapolis said he surmises that he and the presidents of the other companies would comprise the board of directors of a non-profit corporation to be formed to finance research and development and share additional construction and initial operation costs.

One of Nine

Central Electric and Gas Co. of Lincoln is one of nine firms that already have agreed to join with Northern States in the project. Eventually, King said, 12 or 14 firms will take part.

The heart of the new system is an advanced-design controlled recirculation boiling reactor (CRBR), a development based on a 5,000 kilowatt unit at the Argonne National Laboratory.

That reactor is scheduled to be switched on at Chicago Saturday.

Lincoln Firm To Participate

Central Electric and Gas Co. of Lincoln will contribute about $27,000 over a nine-year period to the development of the atomic power plant in southern Minnesota.

L. D. Densmore, vice president and general manager of Central, explained the "small role" of the company in financing the research and construction specified at $250 a month over a nine-year period.

A representative from Central probably will be included on the plant's board of directors, he said, and Central has the right to send its engineers and experts to the site during construction.

The official said that Central's decision to participate in the atomic power plant plan was, in part, due to its small electrical holdings in southeastern South Dakota.

BILL HELD ON COUNTY ROAD PLAN

—during a public hearing — when county fiscal problems can't be worked out until July.

Not Full Plan

Crosby emphasized the county work program would not mean the full plan had to be carried out during a year's period. He added the measure emphasizes local control of highway work in counties.

Howard Johnson, Dodge County, questioned if township control wouldn't be forced out in the proposed program. Crosby related that if the board of supervisors adopted a county road work unit program and it was protested, the program would be put to a vote in the county.

One of the suggestions given the committee was that two counties be enabled to go together for the hiring of a highway superintendent when federal aid programs were involved. The suggestion came from Perry Bryan of Hebron.

Russell Lockwood, Lincoln, representing the Nebraska Petroleum Industries Committee, asked the committee to strike a section of the law — permitting counties to control access on county roads.

One opponent of the bill, Otto Pestel, supervisor in Cumming County, labeled the bill a "foot in the door" to mandatory legislation affecting county highway programs.

Nary A Vote

KAMPALA, Uganda (AP) — The first woman ever to seek a seat in the Buganda Parliament failed to get a single vote in the election.

Withheld

LONDON (AP) — Official British sources withheld comment on a report from Washington that President Eisenhower will meet Prime Minister Macmillan in Bermuda about March 21.

Spokesman at both the Foreign Office and No. 10 Downing Street, Macmillan's official residence, said no comment when asked whether they could confirm that such a meeting is scheduled.

Interstate Hearing Date Here Feb. 26

The State Highway Commission has reversed the dates for Nebraska's first public hearings on the interstate highway and the schedule now calls for the first meeting to be held in Omaha Feb. 25, and the second in Lincoln Feb. 26.

Commission Secretary Owen J. Boyles said the change was necessary because Lincoln Mayor Bennett S. Martin and City Council members had expressed a wish to attend the meeting and would not have been able to appear at the Monday hearing since that is their meeting day.

By the same token, Boyles reported, the Omaha City Council meets on Tuesday and its members would not have been able to attend the original Tuesday meeting scheduled at Omaha.

Boyles said the meeting in Omaha Feb. 25 was scheduled for 10 a.m. at the City Hall when the interstate route from the Gretna Fish Hatcheries to 114th and L Streets will be discussed.

The Lincoln meeting on Tuesday, Feb. 26 is scheduled at 2 p.m. at the City Hall. The Lincoln hearing will be on the 9th and 10th Street extensions to the interchange on the proposed interstate route north of Lincoln. The area involved is from T Street north to the interchange.

Boyles said it was possible the proposed relocation of 9th Street on the south end, through Van Dorn Park, also will be discussed at the same time though it has not formally been included in the hearing agenda.

Purse Taken

The sheriff's office reported that Mrs. James Austin of 3232 No. 9th related that six men took $81 from her purse that was lying in a booth at a local tavern.

KFOR Buys Grand Island Radio Station

Radio Station KFOR announced acquisition of Grand Island station KRGI for $151,000 Friday. Purchase was made from the Grand Island Broadcasting Corp.

James Stuart, KFOR president, said it was the first purchase in a planned program to acquire a group of broadcasting stations.

Ray Kozak, former KRGI sales manager, will be general manager of the station. No staff changes have been announced, and no KFOR personnel have been notified of transfer to Grand Island.

KRGI operates on 1430 kilocycles with 1,000 kilowatts on a full-time schedule.

'Tremendous Future'

Stuart said the purchase was made because of "the tremendous future of radio and the need for expansion of home-town radio broadcasting."

Articles of incorporation were filed with the secretary of state by Stuart, George Bastian and Roger V. Dickson, all of Lincoln, for the Grand Island Broadcasting Co., Ltd.

The corporation lists an authorized capitalization of $40,000 and a purpose "to invest in corporations of business engaged in carrying on commercial radio broadcasting businesses for profit on its own account."

Stuart is president of the Cornbelt Broadcasting Corp., and Bastian, executive vice president. Dickson is a Lincoln attorney.

Nebraska-Caught Murder Suspect Wants Life Term

DENVER (INS) — A 23-year-old suspect in the murder of a Denver waiter said Friday he wants to plead guilty and get life imprisonment.

Aaron Ehrlich of Denver told police, "I want to plead guilty, go to the penitentiary for life and work hard and forget the past."

Ehrlich was returned to Denver Wednesday from North Platte, Neb., where he was arrested for allegedly attempting to cash a stolen check. He has been identified as the man who closed out a bank account belonging to Denver waiter Paul Simms, shortly before Simms' body was found in a downtown Denver hotel room.

Bert W. Watts, Beatrice, Dies

Bert W. Watts, 82, of Beatrice, a Spanish-American War veteran, died in Lincoln Friday night.

He was a retired diesel engine operator.

Survivors are daughters, Mrs. Edward Dolazal of Bartlesville, Okla., and Mrs. Martha Armstrong of Lincoln.

Those who live in God's Will get God's pay — the reward of a happy, fruitful and obedient life.

Rocket Launcher Maker Tells House Probers Of 'Devious Dealing' By Military Buyers

WASHINGTON (AP) — The man who has been producing launchers for the "Mighty Mouse" and other rockets said Friday he is going out of business because of what he called, "devious dealing and strange procurement procedures" by military buyers.

Launcher maker Irving L. Babbitt told his story to the House Military Operations subcommittee, investigating the rocket launcher program.

Babbitt, who is president of Century Industries Corp., said an Air Force switch-around cost him $200,000 and he's going to shut down his San Pedro, Calif., plant with its $395,000 worth of equipment.

He said his firm is the only experienced production source for rocket launchers but the Navy and Air Force have awarded their contracts to other companies which have failed to produce.

Questions Planned
Chairman Hollifield (D-Calif.) announced he will summon military officials for questioning after Babbitt alleged that:

1. The Air Force paid North American Aviation Inc. $450 apiece for 800 adaptors to fit rocket launchers under planes. Babbitt said he could build more limited-use adaptor kits for about $4.69 each. He indicated the $450 variety, like his own, are dropped off the plane after the rockets are fired and in some cases the $450 kit would be more expensive than the rockets.
2. On July, 1953, a Navy award for 40,000 rocket launcher units went to the Spray Con Co. of Chicago which in turn subcontracted to a firm that had a former cafeteria short order cook and a clothing business man as owners and vice presidents.

Babbitt identified the subcontracting firm as the Cincinnati Industrial Finishing Co. but he did not name the vice presidents.

3. While Babbitt's company was producing 100,000 launchers for the Air Force, a House Armed Forces subcommittee headed by Rep. Herbert (D-La.) investigated in 1955 and indicated it wants competitive bids on another 300,000 units the Air Force planned to buy.

'Small Business'
After getting bids, the Air Force awarded a contract for about 150,000 units to the Weatherhead Co. of Cleveland, Ohio, and set aside approximately 150,000 for a "small business." Polan Industries of Huntington, W. Va. Polan Industries handed its contract to Weatherhead. Weatherhead failed, Babbitt said, and "no rocket launchers were produced."

4. Babbitt was unsuccessful in some of his bids because he was leasing his plant from the government and one federal bureau's charges for rent forced his prices up for launchers that another government bureau was trying to buy.

Hollifield praised Babbitt as a developer of inexpensive, paper-and-plastic rocket launchers at a time when the Korean War made more strategic materials hard to get.

Babbitt said his "sad story" now is that Centuries Industry, with some 400 union employees, is about to shut down because of its troubles with military procurement.

'Urgent'
He said he paid out $200,000 to keep the company open after receiving word last Nov. 20 from an Air Force officer that there was an "urgent need for these launchers."

Babbitt told the investigators "it seemed that France and Britain and Israel had attacked Egypt—the Suez Canal—and there was a problem."

But he said the Air Force never followed through with a contract. Meanwhile, he said, the Air Force has told him its plans to start ordering instead a larger rocket launcher similar to one the Navy is buying but not yet in production. He said this means the Air Force may not get launchers for another year, maybe several years.

As for the Navy procurement of this 19-rocket launcher, from the Be and Ge Co. of Gilroy, Calif., Babbitt said a contract for some 44,000 units has been let but "no production is yet in sight."

NEEDLE STING BRIEF, POLIO VICTIM SAYS TO URGE SHOTS

"The sting of a needle doesn't last a life-time. Polio can," a Hebron girl who had the disease when she was in grade school warned her fellow Nebraska Wesleyan University students.

In an editorial in the student newspaper, Nancy Baldwin, a sophomore, urged students to forget their fear of the needle and get polio shots. Only one in four have been inoculated.

HOAGLIN IS COMMITTED TO HOSPITAL ... Found Mentally Ill

Donald F. Hoaglin, 30-year-old laborer charged with the shooting of two state employment office workers, was found mentally ill and committed to the Lincoln State Hospital by the Lancaster County Board of Mental Health following hearing Friday.

Co. Atty. Elmer Scheele, who had requested the hearing, read Hoaglin's statement of the shooting and the report of psychiatric and psychological examinations made on Hoaglin.

Dr. Robert J. Stein's report said Hoaglin has a schizophrenic psychosis, which is paranoid in type (persecution complex) and an intellectually retarded development.

The Lincoln psychiatrist reported Hoaglin legally sane, but medically insane and not able to defend himself at trial.

'Got Mad'

Hoaglin, who is unable to read or write, said in his statement he "got mad" at the employment office after being "repeatedly told" there was no work for him.

He indicated he had always had a feeling that he was "being pushed around by people" and that he had few friends.

Scheele said the dual shooting charges would remain on file and requested that his office be notified by the state hospital if Hoaglin is released or paroled.

Hoaglin, who lived at 3100 Baldwin, is charged with shooting with intent to kill, wound or maim on Nov. 29 two employees of the Nebraska State Employment office at 905 O.

Peoples Ins. Assets Reach A New High

A new high in assets was reported Friday at the annual meeting of policyholders of the Peoples Accident Insurance Company.

Assets increased five per cent to $613,668.28, President J. P. Van Vliet reported.

President Van Vliet said cash, government and municipal securities represented 84 per cent of the assets and stocks, 10 per cent.

Prospects for the coming year appear excellent according to Van Vliet. The company is now doing business in Nebraska, Colorado and Kansas.

Van Vliet was re-elected president of the company. Other officers named are John E. Van Vliet, vice president; A. W. Mason, vice president and assistant secretary; C. P. Van Vliet, secretary-treasurer; M. M. Williamson, assistant treasurer, and the firm of Littrell and Patz, general counsel.

J. P. Van Vliet was re-elected to the board of directors. Other board members are C. P. Van Vliet, A. G. Van Vliet, John E. Van Vliet and Joe R. Evans.

Brownell To The Court

It will be of interest to Nebraskans that Marquis Childs, one of Washington's most capable columnists, thinks that the logic of forces within the Eisenhower administration and the Republican party may bring about appointment of Attorney General Herbert Brownell to the vacancy on the United States Supreme Court developing from the pending retirement of Justice Stanley F. Reed.

The attorney general has been so long removed from Nebraska that the people of this state rarely recall that he was born in Peru, grew up and obtained his earlier schooling in Lincoln, and then moved on to the east for schooling and to New York to practice law. He became associated with former Gov. Thomas E. Dewey in Dewey's earlier political campaigns and his two unsuccessful campaigns for the presidency in 1944 and 1948.

There is no indication in anything that Childs wrote that the attorney general desires to leave the Eisenhower cabinet for a place on the United States Supreme Court. Generally that is taken for granted.

Brownell now is only 53 years of age. Appointment to the court is for life or until an appointee becomes eligible for retirement. The former Nebraskan, then, could look ahead to nearly 20 years of service on the high bench. It is an appointment that most men in public life would welcome, and the assumption is that Mr. Brownell is no exception to the rule. But if he aspires to the bench then he has no future political ambitions.

Basis For Comparison

The Northern States Light and Power Company, a major private power figure in Minnesota and adjoining states, announced plans for the construction of a 60,000 kilowatt atomic electric power plant.

That is an event of more than passing interest in Nebraska where the Consumers Public Power District, a public agency, is and has been for upward of two years moving forward with plans for the construction of a slightly larger atomic installation near Hallam.

Should both plants be realized in the reasonably near future there would be no question of the upper Middle West's prominent place in the pioneering of this great new field.

The two such plants, in addition to testing the present practicability of atomic power in this region and contributing to the essential research that must come with the practical operation of such plants, offers a further point of comparison.

The Northern States land project is a co-operative one in which it will build and operate the plant. Twelve to fourteen other private utilities in Minnesota, the Dakotas and Iowa, the Central Gas and Electric Company of Nebraska, also, will participate financially as well in the intimate experience of operation.

The Nebraska venture is a one agency undertaking.

It will be interesting to compare the virtues of the private utilities' co-operative venture—one that ultimately will be supported by electrical customers of several states, reflecting all types of electrical users with the virtues of a public power undertaking in which a specialized field will be the basis for test.

Point Of Disagreement

Any thoughtful individual would remove his pipe, give forth with a pensive wisp of smoke

Of Men And Things

By J. E. LAWRENCE

No one except Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff will know whether he was having his little joke at the expense of Gov. Anderson and Terry's colleagues in the Nebraska Unicameral, and it is a lead-pipe cinch that Terry himself will not tell. He insists that in offering a motion to bring the budget recommendations of Gov. Anderson out of the appropriations committee to the floor of the Legislature, he was in deadly earnest.

It is difficult to tell when Sen. Carpenter is having fun, if ever. He rarely smiles. After he had fought his battle for the nomination of "Joe Smith" as the Republican candidate for vice president that afternoon at the Cow Palace in San Francisco, Sen. Carpenter treated a milling throng of newspapermen representing the press from all sections of the country to a faint smile. Little did they realize that the Nebraskan had favored them with an almost unprecedented demonstration of humor. They should have seen him the morning after. There he was, in the lobby of the hotel quartering most of the Nebraska delegates, his hat pulled well down over his eyes, sound asleep. It had been a tough night. The phone had rung almost continuously. And with the coming of morning, Terry needed some sleep. He was treating himself to 40 winks and nods. We suggested to a photographer that he snap him while he was still asleep, but just at that very minute Terry came partially awake and awakened partially smiling. It may not have been a stroke of genius that focused the name "Joe Smith" in his mind when another fellow named "Joe"—Joe Martin of Massachusetts—inquired of Mrs. Hazel Abel who it was Terry wanted to nominate in place of Richard Nixon, "Shall I ask him?" Mrs. Abel inquired of the permanent chairman of the convention, "That's what I want you to do," Martin instructed Mrs. Abel.

Little did Gov. Anderson, Sen. Carpenter's colleagues in the Nebraska Unicameral, and Nebraskans generally realize on that particular August day that Terry was going to set some kind of a record in January for the introduction of bills at any single session of the Legislature. Little did anyone realize that the Nebraskan would set the members of the Nebraska Unicameral back on their heels by undertaking to bring the budget bill out of the appropriations committee before that committee had hardly gotten into its work. It is this capacity for doing the unexpected that enabled Sen. Carpenter to say to his fellow Nebraskans that they need never anticipate a dull moment when he is in action.

Notwithstanding the confusion on occasions, this 1957 Nebraska Unicameral Legislature can be proud of the work it has completed thus far. Its committees have disposed of an unusual number of bills. And its members have been digging in with a greater appetite for getting things done than any other legislature in recent years. By way of example, its committees next Monday will conduct hearings on 21 individual bills, some of which are of considerable importance.

Doing Its Work

Something of a record in itself, and before the close of the week may have established an achievement for the Unicameral in clearing the paths for a reasonably early adjournment. It was good advice which former Speaker Walter Raelke gave the Unicameral. The most important thing they were dealing with, he told them, was people. That is so true. In Nebraska where so much of the time its people combat difficult and at times unfavorable developments, the chief concern is the welfare and progress of Nebraskans. Mr. Raelke can be proud of the fact that it was under his leadership that the long-range, 10-year building program for the Board of Control, for the educational institutions, and for the National Guard was adopted. That was 10 years ago. It was a program which has served this state magnificently.

This 1957 Legislature has an unusual number of promising freshmen and sophomores. Some of its younger members give great promise of dedicated service to the state. Meanwhile Terry told his colleagues that if they wanted to play rough, he too could play rough. Terry may not realize it but there is the understatement for 1954, 1955, 1956 and thus far in 1957.

King Saud's Stay Produces Problems

WASHINGTON — The State Department has had its problems in handling King Saud and his retinue. Some of the problems, such as the refusal of Mayor Robert Wagner of New York to greet the king, have been widely publicized. Most of them haven't.

One problem, for instance, is purely budgetary. The State Department is restricted by Congress in the amount of money it can spend on entertaining foreign notables, and therefore has set a rule that chiefs of state cannot bring along more than 10 retainers. This was stretched to include 15 aides for President Sukarno of Indonesia, but the State Department's budget will not stretch to the point of King Saud's retinue of 70.

Therefore the Saudi embassy, with an assist from the Arabian-American Oil Company, is picking up the check for the balance.

Saudi Arabia, not the United States, also paid for the king and his retinue's passage on the USS Constitution. When the king leaves he will go by way of Europe and will be flown by a U.S. plane, though not the Columbine.

Twenty of the king's party are at Blair House, paid by the government, and the rest at the Shoreham Hotel, paid by Aramco. The housekeeper at Blair House was only ready for a three-day visit by his majesty and has really been sweating since Saud decided to spend his entire 10 days in Washington. Ten days, incidentally, is the unofficial limit on time a chief of state is supposed to remain at government expense.

The king's change of plans also caused a sweat at the State Department. Originally it was planned to take him on a tour of American factories and farms to impress him with modern America. But he said no. He was very positive on this point, said his two sons could make the inspection trip, that he would relax in a near-by palace. Hastily the State Department arranged for him to stay at the Greenbrier, White Sulphur Springs, W. Va. Then he changed his mind a second time and decided to remain in Washington. Blair House, across from the White House, was quite good enough.

THE KING'S LAMB

Another minor problem for the State Department has been the procurement of the king's lamb. The king doesn't know it, but two-thirds of his lamb while in Washington has been purchased from either Jewish or Catholic wholesalers.

The District Hotel Supply Co., owned by Morris Kraft, supplied the top-grade saddles of lamb for the king's dinner at the Mayflower. The Southern Hotel Supply Co., owned by Thomas Keane, sold 12 loins of lamb and 30 ribs of top Midwest beef to the Mayflower for another dinner. (Copyright, 1957, by The Bell Syndicate)

ED FITZHUGH

There Oughta Be Laws On Wabbits

The Marquess of Cholmondeley had better move over and make room for me, for I think I am about to start breaking his record of silence.

What brings the Marquess to mind these several weeks after he threw the British House of Lords in a spate of raised eyebrows is that my wife has served an ultimatum on me. It was right down the Marquess' alley.

"Either you or that rabbit has got to go," was the way she phrased it. The rabbit to which she referred was one which has been foraging among her tulip bulbs in our back yard. It was manifestly unfair of her to include me in the ultimatum, since I have not either befriended or defended the cottontail, nor have I been eating tulip bulbs. I have been merely an innocent bystander.

Recognizing the ultimatum for exactly what it was—an attempt to put pressure on me to go rabbit stalking where she and our two dachshunds have repeatedly failed—I cunningly attempted to talk my way out of it.

"This is a problem for the Marquess of Cholmondeley," I remarked. I pronounced Cholmondeley like they do in the House of Lords, where they call it "Chumley." That gave me the chance to swing the conversation away from tulip bulbs. I said, "Did you know that Chumley is spelled C-h-o-l-m-o-n-d-e-l-e-y?"

That budged her a little. She asked, "What's she got to do with rabbits?" "Not she," I corrected. "He. A marquess is a he. He's the fellow who made a speech in the House of Lords a few days ago in favor of a law to exterminate rabbits."

He doesn't like rabbits. Never has. The main thing is, though, it was the first speech he had ever made in the House of Lords, and he is 75 years old and has been a member 32 years."

"Maybe," said Mrs. F., "he was over in the House of Commons all that time waiting for Winston Churchill to make another speech."

I had her going. I slipped a decimated tulip bulb into my pocket so she wouldn't be reminded, and said, "Could you imagine an American senator sitting around for 32 years without ever opening his mouth? Let a habit like that spread to this country and the unemployment would be terrific."

"How do you figure that?" she demanded. "Easy. Look at all the speech writers, television prompters, Congressional Record printers and newspaper reporters who would be out of jobs. Why, a thing like that could start the whole country on the road to depression. And as for political campaigns..."

"You've forgotten something," she said earnestly. The gleam of a crusader was in her eye. I complimented myself silently. Aloud I said, "Yes? What?"

"What happened to the law against rabbits?"

"It was defeated," I said in a low voice, adding, "And now, if you'll excuse me, there's something I've got to attend to downtown..."

"Oh, no you don't!" she said. "It comes out differently here than it did in England. Now you get out there..."

Hereafter, I'm going to try silence on her. Meanwhile, does anybody know how to trap rabbits? (Chicago Sun-Times Syndicate)

Inquiry Served To Spur Oil Shipment

WASHINGTON—A senatorial investigation seems to be succeeding in doing what the Eisenhower administration had failed to do—force major American-owned oil companies to jack up their lagging shipment of crude oil to Europe.

President Eisenhower finally spoke out in strong terms on the subject, although only the day before Secretary of State John Foster Dulles had declared that he saw no reason for the President to do so. Apparently the President had other advice.

President Eisenhower said he thought "our oil deliveries to Europe must be equal to the capacity of the transportation facilities that we have." The job of getting oil for Europe "must be done," he declared. He said that "conference and argument" should be used to get the oil companies to do the job, but that if that didn't work, he had the power to get the job done.

Few people have thought that it would take more than "conference and argument" to persuade the big oil companies. What has been complained of here is that the methods of conference or argument have not been employed by Interior Department officials in the matter, much less by the White House. It has been thought all along that a private word from the President was all that was needed to get the program going.

There have been complaints that much of the blame for the failure to send oil to Europe in adequate quantities must go to the state commissions, particularly that of Texas, which regulate the production of oil and significantly have not increased production in the present emergency.

Apparently the administration has made no efforts to persuade these commissions to do otherwise than they have done. A Louisiana commission member, John B. Hussey, says that if the President wants the commissions to do something, "he should talk to them instead of popping off in the press."

The joint Senate committee investigation of both lagged shipments of oil to Europe and the concurrent increase in oil prices, despite a glut of gasoline in this country, apparently has done what the executive branch has failed to do.

Even before President Eisenhower spoke out, a handful of the major oil companies had announced plans to cut back gasoline production so that crude oil would be available for shipment to Europe. Other companies seem sure to follow their lead.

It has been testified that a cut of somewhat less than five per cent in gasoline refining would release enough crude oil to make up the deficit in shipments to Europe. Standard of Jersey, Continental, Sinclair and Socony-Mobil have all announced that their gasoline refining would be reduced by about five per cent. This is not much of a sacrifice. There is too much gasoline in storage anyway.

Senators may be pleased that their efforts have begun paying off in increased shipments of oil to Europe. They remain unhappy about the price increases of petroleum products. (Copyright, 1957, by U.F. Syndicate, Inc.)

A THOUGHT FOR THE SABBATH

Stories Of Famous Hymns

There's Sunshine In My Soul Today

There's sunshine in my soul today,
More glorious and bright,
Than glows in any earthly sky,
For Jesus is my light.

There's music in my soul today,
A carol to my King,
And Jesus, listening, can hear,
The songs I cannot sing.

There's springtime in my soul today,
For, when the Lord is near,
The dove of peace sings in my heart,
The flowers of grace appear.

There's gladness in my soul today,
And hope and praise and love,
For blessings which He gives me now,
For joys "laid up" above.

By HORACE B. POWELL

This is one of the most popular hymns in the list of Eliza Edmunds Hewitt and John R. Sweney who joined hands to produce a host of nineteenth century gospel song favorites. The hymns, "More About Jesus I Would Know" and "Will There Be Any Stars In My Crown?" also came from their famous partnership.

Miss Hewitt, a native of Philadelphia, studied to be a teacher but was compelled to give up her classes when a spinal ailment made her an invalid. On her bed of illness she turned to writing and almost immediately her hymn-poems began to attract wide attention. Her love for boys and girls which had led her to choose a teaching career found expression in an unusual collection of Sunday school hymns and songs for children.

When her poems were published and circulated, they attracted the interest of Mr. Sweney, who also was a Pennsylvanian, and he sought out the young authoress and asked permission to write music for her religious verses. The tune for "More About Jesus" was one of the first that he turned out. In the quarter century that followed the Civil War he wrote many others.

Sweney became a very talented musician. He mastered the piano and the violin and, later, was a famous choir leader. During the war he directed an army band; when peace came he taught music for many years at the Pennsylvania Military Academy at Chester, his birthplace. In these post-war years he gained considerable prominence as a director of choruses at summer religious conferences and at evangelistic services.

Thank You

Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: During the 1957 March of Dimes campaign, we tried to place before the public the urgent continuing needs of those already stricken by polio, and impress upon all the importance of early use of the Salk vaccine to avert further tragedy and crippling.

For the extremely valuable and unselfish public service The Star has rendered in helping us place these considerations before its many readers, we express our genuine thanks.

The Farmer's Taxes
Guide Rock, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: With reference to Cecil Matthews' letter of February 6 in The Star, Mr. Matthews evidently never lived on or owned a farm. The farmer who buys a farm, livestock or machinery on credit still has to pay taxes on the money he borrowed, because his property is assessed at what it is worth, and what he owes on it is not subtracted. If Mr. Matthews has one hundred dollars, it is taxed at 25 cents, but the farmer who has a cow worth one hundred dollars, pays around five dollars tax.

If Mr. Matthews thinks that is fair taxation, he should get into farming.

M. K. HOLZ

Holding The Line
Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: Again this week President Eisenhower warned business and labor that unless they hold the line on increased prices and labor raises, we may have a depression. However, workers in some industries are not paying any attention to his warning; they are asking for an hourly pay raise.

It is to be hoped that the Nebraska Unicameral will defeat a 2 per cent sales tax which, if passed, would only mean more inflation. It's time that the powers that be sit up and take notice of the President's warning.

BEN KECK

Mutual Building Fund
Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: The register of deeds office records show that the county owns Lots 4, 5, and 6 of the original plat of Lincoln. This is the ground where the bus depot, Capital Garage and other businesses are located. It fronts 13th and M Streets north 150 feet and back to the alley 140 feet.

The county commissioners leased this property in 1924 for $500 per month or $6,000 a year for 99 years. This has been spent through the county general fund. The city and county probably would have to get an enabling act from the present State Legislature to have the city match it by a fraction of a mill levy and call it city and county building fund.

At compound interest over the past 32 years, I imagine the $400,000 asked for the ground just east would have been on hand. After the city and county building is built and paid for, it could also remain as a maintenance fund for grounds and building upkeep for some time.

One of the present county commissioners informed me that the Legislature (after this lease had run several years) passed a law that 20 years is the longest any political subdivision can be leased without a renewal contract. While the charter is being revised or amended, I thought it would be the right time to bring it to the voters' attention. The lease has about 67 years yet to run. The assessed valuation of this building prior to 1955 was a little over $70,000. This tax should be matched by the city also by a fraction mill levy.

I agree with our former mayor, Mr. Clark Jeary, when he said the city and county or any subdivision of the state should plan several years ahead on large capital outlays.

CHARLES R. WARREN

No Volunteers
Lincoln, Neb.
To the editor of The Lincoln Star: A recent news story says that Ike "may use inflation curbs if volunteer measures fail." "May use"—isn't that something? Here we have had prices soaring and soaring, and our President "may use" curbs. What is he waiting for? We have been waiting for over four years for our President to act and now he says he "may" have to act.

Every time the cost of necessities of life has gone up, labor asks for an increase in wages. And their answer to why is, to buy food and clothing for their children.

When we elected Dwight D. Eisenhower, we had great hopes, but we have been disappointed. He has done nothing to stop the steady increase in prices for the necessities. The laboring man asks for an increase in wages that he might have a ladder to reach the high cost of living.

Ike had better get a deep freeze and put it into operation, freezing those high costs of living, and he had better act now. The "volunteers" to put a stop to the high prices will be scarcer than hen's teeth.

Employment Takes Sharp 1,660,000 Tumble For January; Joblessness Rises 461,000

WASHINGTON (AP)—Employment took a sharp tumble in January, dropping by 1,660,000 from the December level while joblessness rose seasonally by 461,000.

The monthly report by Secretary of Labor Mitchell and Secretary of Commerce Weeks described the drop in the number of jobholders as a "seasonal downturn," but it was the largest January decline since the recession year 1949.

At 62,890,000, employment stood almost exactly at the level of January a year ago. The month was the first since March, 1955, in which employment failed to show an increase over the previous year.

"In spite of the sizeable reduction in January, non-farm employment was the highest ever recorded for the month," Weeks and Mitchell said in their joint statement.

Normal Rise

Joblessness climbed to a total of 2,940,000, or about 4½ per cent of the labor force. This was approximately a normal rise for the turn of the year.

The fact that the drop in employment was roughly three times the rise in unemployment was attributed by the secretaries to the fact that many housewives and students dropped out of the labor force when their temporary Christmas jobs ended. Because they were not looking for new jobs, they were not counted as unemployed.

In several other respects January's employment trends departed from the usual seasonal pattern. The report showed that:

1. The average work week in factories was 43 minutes shorter. It averaged 40.2 hours in January as compared with 41 hours in December, partly because manufacturing firms scheduled less overtime operation.

2. The number of workers who got less than a full week's work rose by 150,000 from December. There were 1,200,000 men and women on parttime employment because of what the secretaries called "slack work or other economic factors."

Slightly More

3. Although total non-farm employment, at 57,947,000, was the highest on record for January, the number of jobs in factories dropped by 200,000. This was called "slightly more than usual" for the month.

Most of the manufacturing industries reported cuts in employment. The largest reductions, as usual in January, were in food processing and lumbering, but greater-than-usual drops were reported in the apparel, radio, television, furniture and fabricated metals industries.

However, the bulk of the employment drop, apart from that in agriculture, was ascribed to the usual sharp post-holiday cutbacks in retail trade and the postal service, as well as in construction and other outdoor occupations.

Gambling Device Crackdown Staged

PLATTSMOUTH, Neb. (AP)—Police Chief John Hobscheidt said Friday a brief crackdown on gambling in Plattsburgh had netted the desired result.

He explained that a few pinball machines in the city were paying off with free games, so "I talked to the man who owned them and he agreed to take off the free-game device."

Hobscheidt pointed out that state law forbids pinball machines equipped with totaling or free game devices.

The police chief now is checking into reports that shuffleboard devices are paying off in merchandise or cash.

Plans European Trip

Leaving Lincoln on Friday evening for an extended trip to Europe was Miss Sherry Ann Snider, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robin R. Snider and a former student at the University of Nebraska.

New Neighbors

We have no brides to welcome on our New Neighbors list this morning, but we do have Smiths—and commuters. That is, they were commuters until their recent move to Lincoln.

But about the Smiths—we have two families by that name this morning, and we'll begin with Maj. and Mrs. Douglas Smith who are just getting settled into their home at 910 Fernside Rd. Maj. and Mrs. Smith came to Lincoln from Texas, and other places, by way of Wichita, Kan. But the Smiths, at least fifty percent of the family, really hail from Texas—Mrs. Smith calls Raymondville, Tex., her home, but Maj. Smith is a native of Jackson, Miss.

The Smiths—Mr. and Mrs. Billy F., and their three children, Billy, Kenny and Patty, are so new in town that they haven't finished unpacking. They arrived just a day or so ago from Kansas City, and we learned that Mr. Smith was transferred by American Motors as manager of the Nebraska district.

After they are settled in their new home Mrs. Smith feels that the family will like Lincoln very much—but right at the moment it is a strange city to the Smiths, and just a little different than Kansas City. But the Smiths are happy to be here and we're very happy to have them.

One of our interesting families this morning includes Capt. and Mrs. Merlyn Franck and their two daughters, Carol and Susan. Time was when Capt. and Mrs. Franck resided in Austin, Minn., but that was before the family became a part of the Air Force. Since then there have been numerous posts—San Antonio, Tex., where the family resided—Saudi Arabia, where Capt. Franck spent a year—West Palm Beach, Fla.—and now in Lincoln.

While Capt. Franck was in Arabia Mrs. Franck and the two small daughters were with Mrs.

her cousin, Miss Judie Nelson, and Miss Carol Raushenberg at Milwaukee, and the trio will sail from New York on Thursday. Upon arrival at Le Havre, a car will be waiting for the travelers who will make a six-months motor tour of the continent.

Frank's family in Austin—And speaking of the two Misses Franck—Carol is 10 years old and is delighted with Merle Beattie School—Susan won't be five years old until late March, but next September she, too, will be attending Merle Beattie.

One of our commuter families involves T-Sgt. and Mrs. William M. Harris and their four children, Bobby, Carol, Debbie and Brenda. Sgt. Harris and his family resided in Ceresco from where the Sergeant commuted back and forth to Lincoln Air Force Base each day—But now they are residents of Lincoln, and their new home is at 1000 Knox. Bobby Harris is the only small fry member of the family to attend school—he is in kindergarten at Belmont School.

Sgt. and Mrs. Harris both are native Alabamians—Mrs. Harris comes from Alexander City, and the Sergeant from Jackson's Gap.

Another family for which commuting became a bit boring, moved here just the other day from Adams. They are Mr. and Mrs. Ernest P. Goss, their son, Dennis Paul, who is 13 months old, and a little girl, Roxie Jean Wagner, aged 12, who makes her home with Mr. and Mrs. Goss.

PTA Founders Day Programs

The February meeting of SARATOGA PTA will be held at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday when a Founders Day program will be presented by Mrs. D. W. Schaefer, historian. Past presidents will be honored and the PTA will present life memberships.

The annual Founders Day program of HARTLEY PTA will be held at 7:30 o'clock Tuesday evening. Guest speaker will be Dr. Calvin Reed, associate professor of elementary education at the University of Nebraska, whose topic will be, "Why PTA?"

At the father-son party sponsored by HARTLEY PTA Friday evening at the school, the program featured a judo act by men from the Lincoln Air Force Base. Lester Sherman served as master of ceremonies, and in charge of arrangements for the evening were Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Schaefer.

The Hartley PTA board of managers will hold a meeting at 1:30 o'clock Tuesday in the school library.

ALL AROUND THE TOWN--NEWS

JUDGING from what we picked up here and there the main attraction in Lincoln this evening is Wilt—the Stilt, with everything else more or less playing second fiddle—

For instance—there's the party for Mr. and Mrs. Charles Thorne, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Maly and Mr. and Mrs.

League Hears NU Students

The executive board members of the Legislative Ladies League were hostesses to the league members Thursday afternoon at the meeting held at Sellick Quad on the University of Nebraska campus.

The program, which was under the direction of Robert Dye, residence advisor, was presented by a group of students including Duff Swain, Gary Kohler, Terry Smith, Sanford McConnell and Robert Wagner. A tour of the quad concluded the afternoon.

The party is planned for 8 o'clock or so—Among the 40 der the direction of Robert Dye, residence advisor, was presented by a group of students including Duff Swain, Gary Kohler, Terry Smith, Sanford McConnell and Robert Wagner. A tour of the quad concluded the afternoon.

guests invited are those who won't arrive until after the game—but it seems to be quite all right—the party is informal, and there's to be a late supper.

LEAVING on Sunday for New York City will be Miss Ruth Hovland who boards the Oslo Fjord on Friday, Feb. 15, for a 54-day "Carnival" cruise to South America. The cruise, which will include both the east and west coasts, will have ports of call at Martinique, the Barbados, Trinidad, Brazil, Uruguay, Chile, Peru (with a week's trip inland to the land of the Incas), the Panama Canal—and Cuba. Miss Hovland will return to New York on April 10.

AND while we are on the subject of travelers we'll tell you that Mr. and Mrs. Harris Poley and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wright have plans for a trip to the west coast—The four-some will leave for Palm Springs, Calif., on April 13, and will be joined there by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Lowe who recently left Lincoln and who now are residing in San Diego.

FRIDAY evening brought a four-some of feminine guests to Lincoln—They are Miss Jean Gar-linghouse, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Garlinghouse, Miss Karen Kukuk and Miss Sandra Owens, both of Kansas City Kan., and Miss Judy Cook of Lexington, Mo., all students at the University of Kansas.

During their brief stay in town the KU coeds will be the house guests of Dr. and Mrs. Garlinghouse, and today Miss Garlinghouse will honor her three classmates at luncheon at the Lincoln Country Club.

There isn't much need to mention where the young ladies will be this evening—but if there's a question we can tell you they may be found in the KU cheering section at the Coliseum.

Anyway—On Sunday Miss Cissy Walker will honor the foursome when she entertains at a brunch at her home—and Sunday evening the girls will be en route to Lawrence, Kan.

UNDERSTAND that Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Vogelsang have had as their house guest Mrs. Charles Montague of Fargo, N. D., national treasurer of Alpha Gamma Delta sorority, of which Mrs. Vogelsang is national president. Before returning home Mrs. Montague will visit chapters in Illinois and Missouri.

Mrs. JayCees Plan Meeting

When the Nebraska Junior Chamber of Commerce holds its state-wide meeting in Lincoln this week end, members of the Mrs. JayCees of Lincoln will serve as hostesses to the feminine out of town guests who will accompany their husbands.

The Nebraska Mrs. JayCees will hold their business meeting on Sunday morning following a breakfast with their husbands at the Hotel Cornhusker. Saturday noon, the members of the Mrs. JayCees will be entertained at a luncheon and a fashion show, which will be followed by a formal and card party.

Highlighting the two-day meeting will be a dinner-dance Saturday evening at the Hotel Cornhusker.

Mrs. Charles Roach is general chairman for the Mrs. JayCees activities, and other chairmen are Mrs. Bob Wise, cards and prizes; Mrs. Gay Cole, style show; Mrs. Bruce Warden, luncheon decorations; Mrs. Don Mathes, luncheon reservation; Mrs. Mary Tomlinson, banquet decorations; Mrs. Frank White, hostesses and reservations; Mrs. Randall Koop, calling chairman; and Mrs. Wilhel Voss, publicity.

Mothers Club Luncheon

The Alpha Gamma Delta Mothers Club will meet for a salad-sandwich luncheon at 1 o'clock Saturday at the chapter house. Mrs. Philip Kilian, the new president of the club, will conduct a short business meeting, and a program of songs will be given by Miss Kay Furman.

Luncheon hostesses will be Mrs. R. D. Stage and Mrs. John Strohm.

BSP Chapters Plan Dance

The thirteen Lincoln chapters of Beta Sigma Phi national sorority for young business women will entertain at their annual Valentine dance Saturday evening at Kings Ballroom.

Mrs. Jack Cederdahl is general chairman for the dance, which will be highlighted by the presentation of the Beta Sigma Phi Sweetheart. Serving as co-chairman is Mrs. L. M. Kenney and assisting hostesses will be members of the Zeta and Alpha Tau chapters.

Chapter candidates for the sorority's Sweetheart are Jane Borchering, Beta; Jean Hendry, Epsilon; Jo Cederdahl, Zeta; Viola Wallman, Theta; Rita Bukin, Kappa; Ruth Goodman, Lambda; Arletta Johnson, Alpha Iota; Jean Deitemeyer, Alpha Rho; Pat Roux, Alpha Tau; Eileen Motz, Xi Kappa; Deloris Miller, Xi Upsilon; Mary Essay, Phi Beta; and Velma Lane, Xi Alpha Delta.

THE STAR IN SUBURBIA

Here we are in the second month of the new year and all the new 1957 models of cars, washing machines, etc. are flooding the market. It would certainly seem that our news from the suburbs is in keeping with the newness of things for we have many new residents to introduce, and a new suburb to add to our column this morning.

PARK MANOR

Two families have set up housekeeping in our Park Manor area since our last meeting. Moving into their new home at 1808 Morningside Dr. last Saturday were Dr. and Mrs. Howard D. Wittmuss. Dr. and Mrs. Wittmuss have one daughter, Jane Marie.

PATRICIAN HEIGHTS

A recent party hostess was Mrs. Newell McGrew, who was hostess to the neighborhood pinochle club. The group, who meet each month, are Mrs. Dennis Sherman, Mrs. Mel Green, Mrs. Dick Walgreen, Mrs. Al Hicks, Mrs. Bud Hansen, Mrs. E. D. Staberg, Mrs. Fred Ballis and Mrs. McGrew.

CASINO HEIGHTS

What better way to welcome our new suburb to our list than to introduce some new residents in the community. Mr. and Mrs. William J. Ramsey for instance moved into their new home at 335 So. 58th on Friday, Jan. 25. The Ramseys have two daughters, Barbara and Patricia.

As a welcoming courtesy to Mrs. Ramsey, Mrs. John Hagood was hostess to neighborhood friends at a get-acquainted coffee held at her home last Thursday. Among the guests were Mrs. Andy Hare, Mrs. Gerald White, Mrs. Harold Wagner, Mrs. Dave Barbour, Mrs. Robert Cowden, Mrs. Robert White, and the honoree, Mrs. Ramsey.

Birthdays news this morning concerns Miss Joyce Hagood,

Had Evening Ceremony

Mrs. James Clifford Merritt

Pink and white gladioli filled pedestal urns to form the chancel decor at Warren Methodist Church, Friday evening, Feb. 8, for the wedding of Miss Janice Jean Marcotte, daughter of Mrs. Charles Marcotte and the late Mr. Marcotte, and James Clifford Merritt, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Merritt. The lines of the 7:30 o'clock service were read by the Rev. D. E. Littrell, and Miss Doris Karges, organist, played the wedding music and accompanied the vocal soloist, Miss Lois Stewart.

The matron of honor and bride's only attendant was Mrs. Joe Bruce who wore a knitted frock in turquoise blue fashioned in the daytime mode. She wore a matching pill box hat and brown accessories, and carried a nosegay of pink carnations. Leonard Dillon served Mr. Merritt as best man, and seating the guests were Larry Marcotte and Kenneth Strawn.

For her wedding the bride chose a gown of faille in the winter white shade. Designed on princess lines, the snug basque was accented by a rounded neckline and bracelet sleeves, and the skirt flared into helpline width in the after-five length. She wore a small hat in dark brown with matching accessories, and carried a bouquet of red roses.

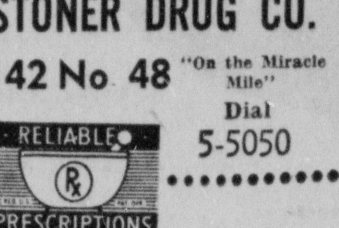

Following a reception for 75 guests in the Community House of the church, the couple left for a short wedding trip. For traveling, Mrs. Merritt wore a tan wool-jersey ensemble with dark brown accessories.

The bridegroom is serving with the Navy.

Trade School Praised

Lowell Welch, superintendent of the Nebraska State Trade School at Milford, issued a report Friday on the school aimed at "further clarification of recent statements made about the institution."

Sen. John P. Munnely of Omaha has introduced a bill in the Legislature, LB 577, which would abolish the school.

Citing the controversy about tuition rates in various Nebraska educational institutions, Welch said the present tuition paid by Nebraska residents at the school is $260 for a 10-month school year, and $360 for non-resident students.

"These tuition charges," Welch said, "are considerably higher than those charged by our University and teachers colleges."

6% Out-Of-State

In answer to criticisms about the number of out-of-state students registered at the school, Welch said that less than six per cent of the present total enrollment of some 450 students are from out-of-state.

The superintendent said the total appropriation for the 1955-56 school year was $157,500. "If we divide the appropriation for the year by the total enrollment of 451 students," Welch said, "we find that $349.22 was appropriated for each student enrolled."

"It should be noted," he added, "that out-of-state students paying $360 tuition exceed the amount appropriated by the Legislature for each student attending the Trade School."

Welch said that in a survey of out-of-state students and their reasons for attending the Nebraska State Trade School, the large majority said they attended because either the school was recommended to them, or the type of training they wished was not available in their state.

Serves Entire State

The superintendent said the Nebraska Trade School "serves the entire state" and reported that in the 1955-56 school year, 79 of Nebraska's 93 counties had students enrolled. He said that 74 per cent of them came from Nebraska farms.

As for statements made "that we weren't doing a good job out here," Welch said, "last year we placed 99 per cent of our graduates in fields for which they were trained."

The Trade School superintendent added, "We don't say that in 20 months time we turn out skilled and finished workers . . . it just can't be done in that time. But we train them well and then the industries can take them and give them the experience to make them finished tradesmen."

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Just saw a bridge tournament staged in a sound-proof glass tank. Four players were hermetically ostracized while they developed palpitation of the finesse.

It was a good idea except the aquarium

The hallions tank is just right for a spit-level sanitarium. The kibitzers are stacked outside the guessing clinic looking through the glass darkly.

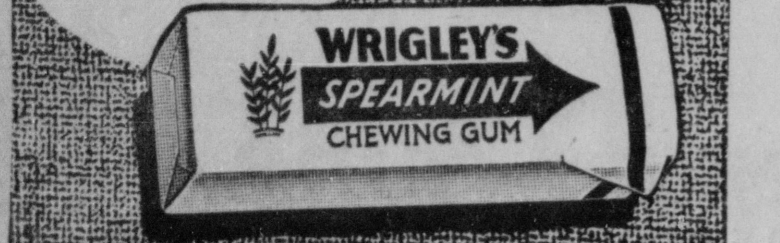

It means adding another room on your ranch house. A wing for the ding.

It's old poker players never could figure a game where there's no betting after the draw.

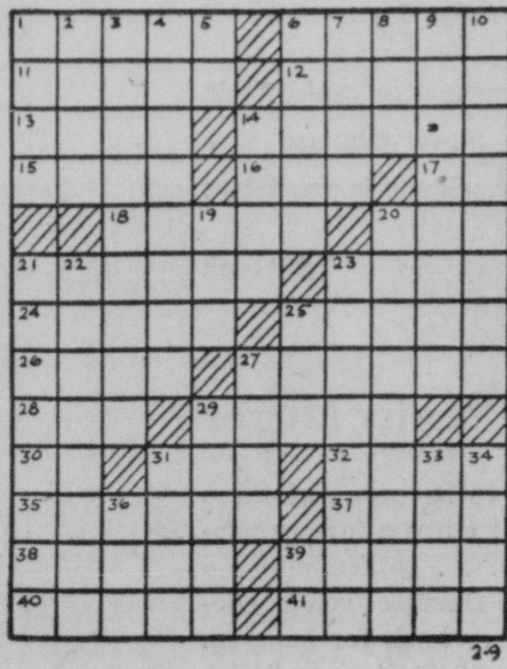

A bridge tournament looks like four frogmen being de-pressurized.

They can do a lot of signalling under the table with those big rubber flappers.

Hebron Trips Tutors, 50-48

By BOB McCOY
Star Sports Staff Writer

Larry Dankenbring connected on a jump shot from the corner with only seven seconds remaining to give Hebron a 50-48 victory over University High in a torrid Class B battle at the Uni High gym Friday night.

The winning jumper was the third in three tries for Dankenbring in the last minute and 22 seconds as Hebron rallied from a 47-42 deficit to take the victory in that brief period.

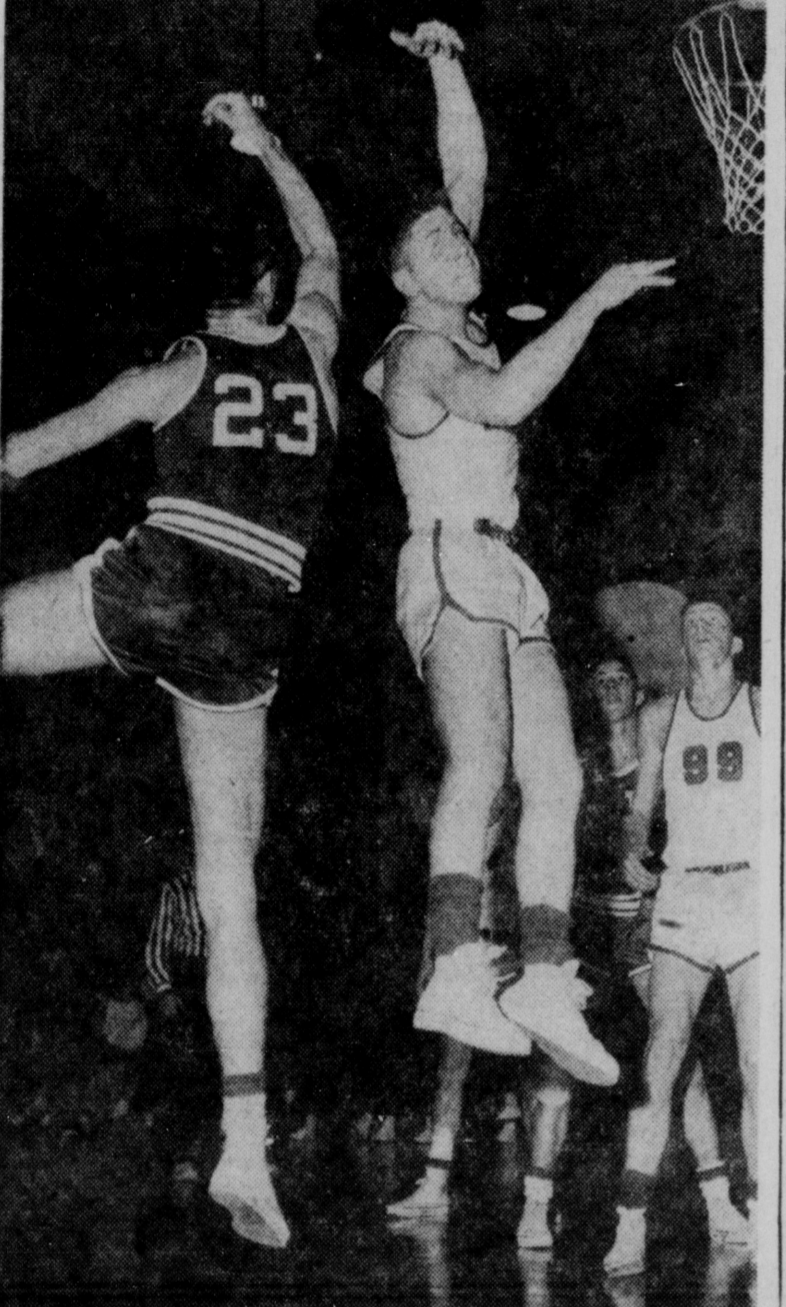

Dankenbring hit on a pair to cut the margin to 47-46 with only 42 seconds left. But Bob Larsen of the Tutors dropped in a free toss to give Uni a two-point spread.

Then big Mel Harmon, the 6-5 Hebron center who was a thorn in the sides of the Tutors all evening, stepped to the charity stripe and promptly tied the count to set the stage for the winning shot.

The Tutors took the ball out of bounds but a wild pass gave it back to Hebron and allowed Dankenbring to get away the shot that sounded the death note for the Tutors.

Hebron jumped off to a fast start as the aggressive play of Jim Kil-

Up, Up, Up And Over

University High center J. V. Olson (77) whips a hook pass up and over the outstretched hand of 6-5 Mel Harmon of Hebron (23) in the third quarter action of the Class B tussle at the Uni High gym Friday night.

Watching the action, which saw the Tutors' Sonny Sader receive the pass, are Don Luehr (99) of Uni High and Jim Killinger (21) of Hebron while Marvin Bauer (44) is hidden from view by Olson. Hebron won the close contest, 50-48. (Star Photo).

linger paced them to a 12-7 first quarter advantage.

But the Tutors bounced back in the second period and finally went ahead with 3:25 left in the half as Marv Bauer hit on a sensational two-handed jump shot from near mid-court.

Sonny Sader gave the Tutors a 19-18 halftime advantage with a fancy tip-in as the first half buzzer sounded.

The Tutors came out strong in the second half as Bauer and Larsen began to hit to give University High a five-point advantage which it maintained until the final Hebron outburst.

The Tutors took their widest margin at the end of the third quarter as Bauer let loose with a 45-foot cast to give them a 33-26 lead.

'Stilt' At...

KU, Nebraska Clash Tonight

The long-awaited invasion of Kansas and seven-foot Wilt (The Stilt) Chamberlain will find Nebraska's basketball Cornhuskers ready, waiting and keyed up at the Coliseum tonight.

Game time is 8 p.m. The game is a sellout but the number of people who will see the game is difficult to estimate, since it will be televised locally by KOLN-TV, CHANNEL 10.

This will be the first Big Seven meeting between the two clubs, and Nebraska's first home appearance since early in January.

The Huskers, unbeaten in the Coliseum in four games this season, suffered an 89-53 mauling at the hand of Kansas State Monday in their first conference start after mid-year exams.

A long layoff dulled the Cornhuskers, but they figure to be sharper tonight—and it's no secret that they have been pointing for this game almost since the season began.

Nebraska will try to match the rebounding, defensive and shooting skills of Chamberlain & Friends with some sharp shooting of its own.

The Huskers, despite a 2-2 league record and an 8-7 overall mark, have done some deadly shooting—especially in Big Seven play. Their conference field goal percentage is a lousy .46.

Top performance to date was the 68 per cent night against Colorado in the Huskers' Big Seven opener.

Gary Reimers, 5-9½ junior guard from Millard, has been the hottest of the Huskers. In the four Big Seven games he has hit 27 of 46 throws at the basket for 58 per cent.

Gary's 49 per cent overall mark and a 14.1 per game average lead the Nebraska team statistics.

Even torrid shooting might not be enough to overcome once-beaten Kansas, the second-ranked team in the nation and the Big Seven leader. Kansas has been outshot in three of five league games yet has lost only once.

Iowa State did the trick with a unique defense against Chamberlain.

Chamberlain will have an added incentive in his first appearance at Lincoln.

Wednesday night he lost the lead in the national collegiate scoring race. Chet Forte of Columbia passed Chamberlain in the race and now leads with a 30-point per-game average. Chamberlain has averaged 29.8 through 14 games.

Chamberlain isn't the only big problem for the Huskers.

Kansas will also offer Ron Loneski, highly-touted soph who missed early games with a foot injury; Maurice King, 1956 All-Big Seven guard who broke up last year's KU-NU game in the Coliseum with timely shots from the corner; and Gene Elstun and John Parker, the two busy Jayhawk co-captains.

The probable starting lineups:

KANSAS	G	F	T	NEBRASKA	G	F	T
Loneski (6-4½)	F	Smith (6-3)	F
Elstun (6-2½)	F	Elstun (6-3)	F

THINCLAD QUILTS; WON'T CUT HAIR

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Distance runner Bruce Dern has turned in his Penn track suit rather than cut off his Elvis Presley-type sideburns.

Dern, son of a prominent Chicago attorney, wrote Coach Ken Donerly that he would lose his individuality and become a conformist if he cut off his sideburns.

The coach, in effect, delivered an ultimatum to the 20-year-old member of his two mile relay team—cut off the sideburns and conform with the rest of the squad, or else. Dern chose the "or else." He resigned, it was disclosed Friday.

SYRACUSE HUMBLES PIUS, 51-42

SYRACUSE — The Pius X Thunderbolts ran into stiff Class C competition for the second time this week and left before Syracuse here Friday night, 51-42.

Pius had lost to The Star's Class C leader, Hastings St. Cecilia, Tuesday night.

The Thunderbolts were hampered throughout the contest with center George Easley, their leading scorer and rebounder, out of action due to illness.

But Phil Breitfelder and Dave Higgins handled the Pius load effectively during the first half which saw the Thunderbolts forge into a 22-1 lead.

Syracuse began to hit in the third period and continued the pace by completely outclassing Pius in the final stanza to take the victory.

Larry Bartels and Gene Nannen were the steady Syracuse gunners during the second half surge while little Bob Morrissey added a pair of fielders in the final period that broke Pius's back.

Big Bill Bliss, the Pius football star filled in for the absent Easley and did a commendable job on the boards.

The loss dropped the Thunderbolts record to 9-5, with three of the losses coming to Class C schools. Pius X is a B school.

SYRACUSE HUMBLES PIUS, 51-42

SYRACUSE — The Pius X Thunderbolts ran into stiff Class C competition for the second time this week and left before Syracuse here Friday night, 51-42.

Pius had lost to The Star's Class C leader, Hastings St. Cecilia, Tuesday night.

The Thunderbolts were hampered throughout the contest with center George Easley, their leading scorer and rebounder, out of action due to illness.

But Phil Breitfelder and Dave Higgins handled the Pius load effectively during the first half which saw the Thunderbolts forge into a 22-1 lead.

Syracuse began to hit in the third period and continued the pace by completely outclassing Pius in the final stanza to take the victory.

Larry Bartels and Gene Nannen were the steady Syracuse gunners during the second half surge while little Bob Morrissey added a pair of fielders in the final period that broke Pius's back.

Big Bill Bliss, the Pius football star filled in for the absent Easley and did a commendable job on the boards.

The loss dropped the Thunderbolts record to 9-5, with three of the losses coming to Class C schools. Pius X is a B school.

Road-Shooting Bill Under Fire By State Senators

Solons Cite Danger, Loss Of Feeding

A shooting from the road bill got shot at from the floor of the Legislature Friday and the solons left the issue punctured with criticism.

Under terms of the bill, LB 194, provision now prohibiting shooting at game from a road would be repealed. An amendment to the bill, introduced but not acted on Friday, would limit the road shooting to other than those of hard surface.

The bill was introduced by Sens. William Moulton, Omaha; Frank Nelson, O'Neill, and LeRoy Bahensky, Palmer.

Moulton in floor discussion of the measure Friday said permitting shooting from the road would open up some 2 million acres of shooting area. This primarily would be along roadsides where game birds, especially pheasants, feed and find gravel for digestion of food.

One of the principal objectors on the floor Friday was Sen. Mervin Bedford of Geneva who asked an amendment including prohibiting such shooting from gravel as well as hard surface roads.

Sen. Bedford said he had two state highways through his county, both "ravel" and he "would hate to see people going along blasting with all that traffic."

Moulton replied the road shooting feature actually was a safety measure. Road shooting now is allowed, Sen. Moulton said, but not for game birds.

Another objector, Sen. Hans O. Jensen of Aurora told the Legislature he wanted to "eliminate all shooting from any road." State sheriffs, Sen. Jensen said, are generally opposed to such a measure because it "hampers enforcement."

Sen. Harry Pizer, North Platte, said the bill would be "setting a bad precedent."

Sen. Harold Stryker, Rising City, called the bill another step toward allowing hunters to drive along a road and stick a gun out the window to do their hunting.

One of the introducers, Sen. Nelson, said the bill does not permit hunters to carry loaded guns and doesn't allow them to shoot from a car.

The Legislature adjourned before action on either the bill or the Moulton amendment was considered.

Evashevski's Pay Upped To $17,500

DES MOINES (AP) — Iowa Football coach Forest Evashevski and his aides were awarded salary increase by the State Board of Regents Friday.

Evashevski's pay was raised $2,500 to give him an annual salary of $17,500 for the remaining seven years of a 10-year contract signed in 1954.

At his new rate, Evashevski will be the third highest paid individual in state educational institutions.

Assistant coaches Bob Flora, Bump Elliott, Archie Kodros and Jerry Burns were granted $300 increases. Henry Piro was given $800 more and Jerry Hilgenberg, freshman coach, was granted $1,000 additional.

Flora and Elliott will now get $10,000 annually; Kodros and Piro $8,800 each, Burns $6,500 and Hilgenberg $6,000 annually.

Mid-East Gym, Swim Meet Staged Today

Saturday evening will be a busy time at the PSA Building as the Mid-East conference will hold its annual swimming and gymnastics meets.

Northeast, Southeast and Hastings will provide the competition in each meet with Northeast defending the gymnastics title and Hastings the swimming championship.

The gymnastics affair is scheduled to begin at 6:30 p.m., with the swim meet to take place at 8 p.m.

The swimming competition will feature the appearance of several state champion hopefuls. Hastings is led by Bill Champlin, state sprint title-holder and Bill Fowles, a freshman flash who has been breaking all kinds of dual meet records.

Several 1956 champions are among this year's competitors, including Jim Davies (100-yard backstroke), Southeast; Jim Frank (diving), Southeast; Jack Briggs (120-yard medley), Southeast.

Among the Northeast swimmers expected to make a good showing today are Jim Nelson and Robin Snider.

The gymnastics meet also brings together such stars as Northeast's Gene Barkley and Hans Burchard and Southeast's Virgil Kubert. The Rockets are the heavy favorite to repeat as champion in this affair.

The charges against Robertson were later withdrawn at the insistence of Game Commission director M. O. Steen who succeeded Gilbert to the directorship of the Commission.

Steen has consistently held the charges were filed because of "internal" feuding of the Commission which he said he hoped to stop.

Robertson Case To Be Aired Soon

The state Legislature's investigation into the Don Robertson case is expected to be held during the week of Feb. 17-23, according to Sen. Don McGinley of Ogallala.

The senator is chairman of the five-man committee named to investigate the charges of whether or not Robertson, member of the State Game Commission, violated game laws when he shot a quail in Johnson County in 1955.

Sen. McGinley said Friday the investigation definitely will be held during the third week in February, but no specific date has been set. Announcement of the date of the investigation and how it is expected to be handled will be made next week, McGinley said.

Robertson was charged with shooting a game bird while standing on gravel road during a hunting trip which included Paul Gilbert, at that time director of the Game Commission. Charges into the case weren't filed against Robertson until after Gilbert's death seven months later.

Robertson has denied the shooting and has refused to vacate his commission membership. The investigation into the shooting by the Legislature, offered by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff, was intended to "clear the air" of the hunting incident because of any effect it might have on other game bills pending before the senators during the present session.

Sen. McGinley said Friday he didn't think the hearing would take more than one full day, starting in the morning, and that the hearing will be open to the public.

The charges against Robertson were later withdrawn at the insistence of Game Commission director M. O. Steen who succeeded Gilbert to the directorship of the Commission.

Steen has consistently held the charges were filed because of "internal" feuding of the Commission which he said he hoped to stop.

Switch-Hitting Martinez KO's Courchesne In 10th

NEW YORK (AP)—Isidro Martinez, a switch-hitting featherweight from Panama, brushed off a second-round knockdown to stop Bobby Courchesne of Holyoke, Mass., in 32 seconds of the 10th and last round Friday night at Madison Square Garden. Martinez weighed 129, Courchesne 129½.

Referee Mark Conn stopped the bout as Courchesne backed against the ropes in a neutral corner under a steady bombardment from the nimble little newcomer. Courchesne, stopped three times in 53 previous contests, offered little resistance during the stretch.

Martinez shifted from right to left handed style, boxing south-paw most of the night. While Courchesne still showed fire in the early rounds, Isidro was content to stab with his right jab, move away and then rush in with a sudden flurry.

After the fourth it was a rout with Martinez taking complete charge as he whaled away at body and head. He never did drop Bobby but he cut him around the right eye and drew blood from his nose.

The official score cards were unanimous, all three voting 8-1 for Martinez at the end of the ninth. Referee Conn and Judges Bill Recht and Leo Birnbaum all gave Courchesne one round, the second.

The AP had it the same way. Early in the second, just before the one-minute mark, Courchesne smashed a right hand to Martinez's jaw and he went down near the ropes. The Panamanian got up quickly, at about two, but had to take the automatic eight-count from Conn under New York rules.

Martinez has a 17-2-1 record for 20 bouts. He has stopped eight victims.

Icy Road Causes Deshler Woman's Death

Mother Of Six Thrown From Skidding Auto

Lincoln Star Special
EXETER, Neb. — Mrs. Louise Fangmeyer, 38, of Deshler lost her life Friday morning when the car in which she was a passenger skidded on icy U.S. 6 just east of Exeter and went off the road on the north side of the highway. She was thrown from the auto, according to an investigating Safety Patrolman.

Her husband, Fred, who was driving the car, was not injured. Mrs. Fangmeyer died in a Friend hospital shortly after the accident. She and her husband were en route to Omaha for a medical checkup for Mrs. Fangmeyer who underwent surgery in December.

The Fangmeyers reside on a farm one mile south and three miles east of Deshler.

Surviving in addition to her husband are four sons, Dale, Allen and Lewis, all at home, and Ervin of Portland, Ore.; two daughters, Marcia, at home, and Mrs. Laverne Mesloh of Deshler; her mother, Mrs. Louise Potthast, living southwest of Hebron; two brothers and two sisters.

The death boosted the Nebraska highway fatality toll for the year to 15 as compared with 26 at this time in 1956.

Livestock Operation Should Go With Irrigation, Rutt Believes

HARVARD, Neb. — "You've got to have some type of livestock with irrigation farming or you'll go out of business," Clarence Rutt, Hastings dairyman, told more than 400 persons attending an irrigation clinic here Friday.

"I began irrigating seven years ago and started a dairy operation three years ago on my 200-acre farm," Rutt continued. "The dairy gives me a steady income while providing an outlet for large quantities of grain and roughage produced under irrigation."

Rutt does have a 10 acre irrigated pasture but he just uses that as "an exercise area." The herd is fed in dry lot the year round.

Corn For Silage

Rutt harvests corn for silage and plans to put up some alfalfa in his silos this year. By growing corn for ensilage under irrigation he is able to harvest 25 tons per acre. His corn yielded 130 bushels per acre last year, while he has produced as high as 50 bushels per acre under irrigation. He also pastures the wheat in the spring. By irrigating from March to October each year he is able to get over 280 acres with one, 8 inch well.

Rutt appeared on a panel along with John Mohman, Hastings, who reported finding sheep a profitable enterprise in irrigation farming. Mohman buys feeder lambs in early fall and turns them into cornfields soon after final irrigation. The lambs are left in the field until all the shelled corn has been gleaned and then shipped direct to market.

"You can't afford to feed lambs anymore because the margin is too close," Mohman said.

Rites Saturday For Rev. Hoare

HEMINGFORD, Neb. — Funeral services for the Rev. William J. Hoare, 69, pastor of the Hemingford Congregational Church for four years, will be held at 2 p.m. Saturday at the church.

The Rev. Mr. Hoare, a native of England, came to the U.S. as a young man. He served a pastorate in Minnesota before going to South Dakota in 1919. In 1955 he conceived the idea of building a Christmas diorama depicting the nativity story as a Chamber of Commerce project. Four scenes in 1955 were expanded to nine in 1956, and a 10-year project eventually will result in 30 scenes.

Surviving are his wife, Esther; one daughter, Mrs. Donald West of Denver; one brother and two grandchildren.

Mrs. Waggoner Celebrates Her 100th Birthday

HOLDREGE, Neb. — Mrs. Dora Waggoner of Memorial Homes celebrated her 100th birthday this week.

Mrs. Waggoner was born in Orange township of Ashland county, Ohio, in 1857 and came to Nebraska in 1874. William Waggoner, her husband, died in 1933. They made their home in the Napoleon and Republican City areas, and Mrs. Waggoner moved to Alma following her husband's death.

Mrs. Waggoner has been confined to a wheel chair or bed for several years but has remained active and alert otherwise.

Mrs. Waggoner has six children, 26 grandchildren and 61 great-grandchildren.

Many Leukemia Patients Can Live For Years—Meyer

OMAHA — A Wisconsin expert in blood diseases declared Friday there are "several kinds of leukemia" and many patients suffering with the disease may live "an indefinite number of years."

Dr. Ovid O. Meyer, head of the Department of Medicine at the University of Wisconsin, said he wanted to "emphasize" this point.

"You tell persons that a loved one has leukemia and they are liable to go to pot," he said. "They have heard only about the most severe types of the disease."

Dr. Meyer spoke Friday at a postgraduate course on diseases of the blood at the University of Nebraska College of Medicine.

He said there is no known cure for leukemia, but advances in treatment, particularly with new drugs, have provided benefit for some patients.

Leukemia is a disease of the tissues which form in the blood in which there is an overproduction of white blood cells. It is becoming more common, and not just because doctors are improving methods of detecting it, Dr. Meyer said.

He also noted that it is a disease of all ages, striking the very young and young adults as well as older people.

It is a disease with a "relationship to cancer but is not cancer," he said.

A New York physician says that for the first time, doctors see a glimmer of hope in conquering rheumatoid arthritis.

Dr. Edward F. Hartung said it has been discovered that all persons with the devastating crippling have a common "x factor" in their blood, and researchers are now seeking its cause.

Dr. Hartung is chief of the arthritis clinic at New York University.

Drive Waged For Discrediting State Colleges—Brandenburg

WAYNE, Neb. — President W. A. Brandenburg of Wayne State College has written alumni and parents of students that "an intensive campaign is being waged in some quarters to discredit the teachers college, and public education, generally."

"In the near future," he wrote, "decisions will be made in Lincoln affecting greatly the welfare of you, college, and that of public education in Nebraska. You can influence these decisions and we hope you will want to do so."

The college president urged opposition to increase tuition at the four Teachers' colleges.

"Wayne has asked for $896,873 from tax funds for each of the two years in the next biennium. The requests of Kearney, Peru and Chadron are equally conservative," he stated.

"It was stated that our non-resident tuition is $40 less than the average of similar institutions in surrounding states. We are charging $2 more, not $40 less," Dr. Brandenburg said.

"We are told the present non-resident fee gives us an unfair advantage over our conference opponent," he continued. "Wayne did not win a football game in Nebraska College Conference last year. Aside from coaches salaries

Mrs Briggs, 77, Of Seward Dies

Wheat Growers Ask Food Reserve For National Emergencies

By DEL HARDING
Star Staff Writer

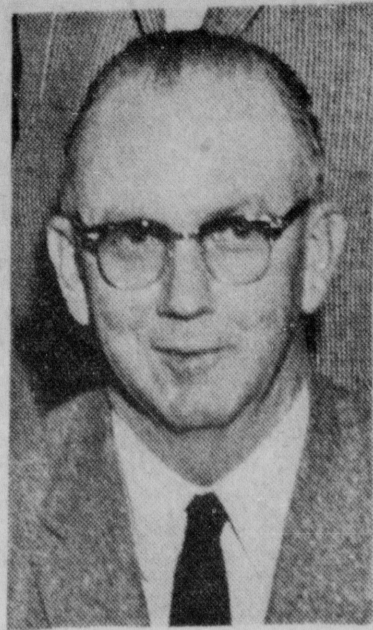

A recommendation that a "strategic national food reserve" of 500 million bushels of wheat be created was included in resolutions approved Friday by the National Wheat Growers Association as the group wound up its convention in Lincoln.

The food reserve resolution stated that "This principle was established in the 1954 Farm Act, but should be amended to provide that no sales shall be made from this reserve except in a national emergency and that it shall be excluded from the total supply when computation is made to set national acreage allotments and price support levels."

"The cost of this reserve and its maintenance," the resolution continued, "shall be considered the responsibility of and charged to the national defense program."

Domestic Parity Plan
The Association also passed a resolution favoring the enactment of a domestic parity plan and urged its own executive committee to work for its enactment by Congress. Such a plan would presumably provide for high supports on domestically consumed wheat with the remainder being sold on the open market.

In the event that such a plan is not made a part of the 1957 farm legislation, the Association recommended that at least 200 million bushels of government-owned wheat be sold each year for feeding purposes, provided that in establishing the sales price of such wheat "due consideration" is given to the feeding value of the wheat and to the effect that such sales will have on the price of feed grains.

Other recommendations included:

1. That the price support not be contingent on participation in the soil bank. Participation in the soil bank "must be voluntary and be achieved by sufficient financial incentive," the resolution stated.
2. That the Association's executive committee take the "necessary steps to gain recognition for the fact that summer fallow is an essential part of a crop rotation plan and therefore should be considered in the determination of the soil bank base for the farm for participation in the conservation reserve."

3. That soil bank regulations be changed so that only those landlords who will share in the compensation to be paid under the agreement be required to sign the agreement.

4. That wheat producers be compensated with commodity credit drafts instead of negotiable certificates redeemable in that commodity.

5. That there be no increase in the size of the non-commercial wheat area.

Wheat Quota

6. Opposition to any change in the wheat marketing quota law which would allow wheat to be grown without penalty when all the wheat grown on the farm is fed on the farm where raised.

Sen. Frank Carlson (R-Kan.) spoke to the Association concerning agricultural legislation currently pending before Congress. He said he believed there will be no major attempt at this session of Congress to "change the fundamentals of the price support law."

Newlin Mort

and that it is "generally believed that the soil bank should be given a chance to function."

Sen. Carlson noted that Agriculture Secretary Benson said a year ago that wheat was his "No. 1 problem," and added that he believed that Benson would readily admit that today corn is the biggest problem.

"It is my opinion," he said, "that unless there is a change in the government programs for corn, surpluses of the grain may become even larger."

'Dissatisfied'
He said there is "no doubt in my mind but what the farmers were highly dissatisfied with the cut in price supports in 1957 and so expressed themselves in the December referendum."

Herbert J. Hughes of Imperial, Neb., was re-elected president of the Association. Vice presidents re-elected were: Lester L. Mort, Venango, Neb.; Carroll Boyd, Dumas, Tex.; Ted Fiedler, Holyoke, Colo.; R. L. Patterson, Oxford, Kan.; Floyd Root, Wasco, Ore. A new vice president is Verne Newlin of Lewis, Kan., was re-elected secretary-treasurer.

More than 315 persons from 17 states, the District of Columbia and Canada attended the three-day convention, which was described as "highly successful" by Hughes. Next year's convention was awarded to the State of Washington.

Bill To Prohibit Alcohol Possession By Minor To Floor

The Committee on Public Health Friday advanced to the floor a bill prohibiting any minor from having alcohol liquor in his possession.

LB 277, introduced by Sen. David Tews of Norfolk, was advanced on a 6-0 vote and was amended to include the emergency clause.

The committee also advanced to the general file LB 282 which increases the license fee to practice dentistry from $25 to $50.

The measure was introduced by Sen. William A. McHenry of Nelson and was passed on a unanimous vote.

The committee also advanced to general file LB 99 which provides for the licensing of physical therapists.

Terry Tells Colleagues He'll 'Draw Blood' If Necessary

Members of the Legislature were told Friday by Sen. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff that, in so many words, if they want to play rough, he is prepared to do the same.

Carpenter made specific reference to a senator's comment Thursday that Carpenter's attempts to force Gov. Victor Anderson's budget out of the Budget Committee's hands was a "publicity stunt."

Sen. Hal Bridenbaugh of Dakota City made the comment.

"If anybody wants to draw blood," Carpenter said Friday, "not only my blood will be on the floor, but that of those who want to engage in such action."

In a brief floor speech, Carpenter made passing reference to the "Joe Smith" episode at the Republican National Convention in San Francisco and stated "that was no publicity stunt on my part."

Carpenter, blocked in efforts to nominate Fred Seaton, now Interior Secretary, for vice president at the GOP Convention nominated a "fictitious" "Joe Smith."

The Scottsbluff senator said he had been accused falsely four years ago, while in the Legislature, of engaging in "personalities" and had determined not to leave himself open to such accusations this time.

"But if some senators want to become engaged in questioning the motives of the senators, to engage in an extreme case of personalities and to prolong the session with this kind of tactics ... I am fully qualified to engage in this type of legislative debate."

Senators Advance Motor Fuel Bills

LB's 302, 303 and 304, three uncontested bills introduced by Sen. Hal Bridenbaugh and supported by the motor fuel division of the State Department of Agriculture and Inspection, were advanced to general file Friday by the Legislature's Committee on Miscellaneous Subjects.

LB 302 would raise the fine for violation of the special fuels tax statutes from $25-50 to $100-500.

LB 303, as explained to the committee by Fuel Division Chief Clay Wright, would merely correct the title of an already existing law requiring transporters of petroleum products into the state to report deliveries to the Department of Agriculture.

LB 304 would make minor revisions in the statutes relating to oil inspections.
